DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.

2. Claims 1-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(a) as being anticipated by Noborimoto et al. (hereinafter Noborimoto – US Doc. No. 2002/0085467 A1).

Regarding claims 1-6, the rejections applied to claims 1-6 in the previous Office Action, mailed on 10/18/2006, are herein repeated for the same reasons (see Response to Arguments).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 7 and 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Noborimoto et al. (hereinafter Noborimoto – US Doc. No. 2002/0085467 A1).

Regarding claim 7, Noborimoto discloses all of the limitations of claim 1 as discussed in the claim 1 rejection above. Noborimoto does not disclose that the first electrode patten corrects for aberration in only the first disc type. Examiner asserts that it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to configure one of two electrodes to work with one disk type and the second of two electrodes to work with another disc type, since it has been held that the recitation that an element is "adapted to" perform a function is not a positive limitation but only requires the ability to so perform. It does not constitute a limitation in any patentable sense. In re Hutchison, 69 USPQ 138.

Regarding claim 8, Noborimoto discloses all of the limitations of claim 4 as discussed in the claim 4 rejection above. Noborimoto does not disclose that the first electrode patten corrects for aberration in only the first disc type. Examiner asserts that it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to configure one of two electrodes to work with one disk type and the second of two electrodes to work with another disc type, since it has been held that the recitation that an element is "adapted to" perform a function is not a positive limitation but only requires the ability to so perform. It does not constitute a limitation in any patentable sense. In re Hutchison, 69 USPQ 138.

Response to Arguments

5. Applicant's arguments filed 3/19/2007 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant, on page 6 of the response filed on 3/19/2007, argues that Noborimoto does not disclose electrode patterns that are configured to correct aberrations of a first and second disc type. Examiner respectfully disagrees. Examiner asserts that Noborimoto discloses detecting one of three types of discs and then altering the voltage to the electrode patterns in order to correct the aberration for each type of disc (see page 5, paragraphs 0061-0063).

Applicant also argues that the first pattern is configured only to work with the first disc type and the second pattern is configured to only work with the second disc type. Examiner asserts that it would be obvious to adapt one electrode to work for one disc type and another electrode to work for another disc type as discussed above.

Further, it should be emphasized that "apparatus claims must be structurally distinguishable from the prior art." MPEP 2114. In re Danly, 263 F. 2d 844, 847, 120 USPQ 528, 531 (CCPA 1959) it was held that apparatus claims must be distinguished from prior art in terms of structure rather than function. In Hewlett-Packard Co. v Bausch & Lomb Inc., 909 F.2d 1464, 1469, 15 USPQ2d 1525, 1528 (Fed. Cir. 1990), the court held that: "Apparatus claims cover what a device is, not what it does" (emphases in original). To emphasize the point further, the court added: "An invention need not operate differently than the prior art to be patentable, but need only be different" (emphases in original).

Conclusion

6. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within

Art Unit: 2627

TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
